Pet Butler, Nation's Top Pet Waste Cleanup Service, Names Director of Franchise Management

FRISCO, Texas, June 27, 2006 – Randall Edwin Brown has been named Director of Franchise Operations for Pet Butler, the nation's leading pet waste cleanup and removal service.

Brown has played an instrumental role in growing Pet Butler's franchise holdings since the company launched its franchise operations in 2005. Responding to the rapid growth of its franchise business, Pet Butler established a specific franchise management function, which Brown now oversees.

Brown is now the primary contact for more than 18 Pet Butler franchise partners, who among them operate 42 separate Pet Butler territories across the U.S. He is responsible for directing franchise operations and development of new franchise partners.

"Randy is a great choice for the position of Director of Franchise Operations," said Matt "Red" Boswell, CEO of Pet Butler. "He has been an integral part of our customer service department and has shown great leadership skills among customers, franchise partners and employees."

Brown has an associate arts degree from Weatherford College.
